Menterra is a prominent social impact fund that harnesses the power of innovation, entrepreneurship, and markets to address the critical needs in healthcare, education, and agriculture for the socially and economically underprivileged in India. With a focus on targeted investments, Menterra ensures financial sustainability, returns, and a profound impact through real and sustained operational engagement.

George Thomas Chief Executive Officer

With over four decades of remarkable experience, George brings a wealth of expertise to Menterra. He played a pivotal role in developing the new foods business at Unilever and contributed to the success of renowned businesses as one of the founding partners of India Value Fund (now True North). George's operating expertise and deep industry insights make him an invaluable asset. He holds a postgraduate degree in Humanities from St. Stephen's College, Delhi University (1982).

Mukesh Sharma, CA, CFA Co-founder and Chief Investment Officer

Mukesh carries over 20 years of experience in venture capital and social impact investing. His personal experiences have fueled his passion for addressing disparities in education and healthcare. Growing up in a small town in Gujarat built for partition refugees, he witnessed the transformative power of education. Mukesh also witnessed the dire state of healthcare after a massive earthquake struck his district. In 2015, he co-founded Menterra, driven by his unwavering belief in the power of markets and return-focused investing to make a lasting impact.

Paul Basil Co-founder and Head of Impact Management

Paul is the founder of India's first social impact incubator, Villgro. He has been instrumental in supporting the incubation of over 400 social enterprises, fostering a robust ecosystem for social impact in India, as well as in multiple countries across Africa and Asia. With vast experience and expertise in impact management, Paul is an influential figure in driving sustainable change. He holds a Post Graduate Diploma in Forestry Management and was honored with the Ashoka Fellowship in 2002 for his outstanding services in delivering social entrepreneurship.
